ADVERTISEMENT.

The publication of the present Catalogue has been delayed thus long solely for the purpose of making it as complete as possible. For the accomplishment of this end, several successive Committees have labored; but, notwithstanding their exertions to correct former editions, and to supply the omissions of their predecessors, the present Catalogue, it is to be regretted, is defective in many particulars.

The deaths, and places of residence, have been in many cases omitted, and in others, doubtless, incorrectly noted.

These, it is believed, are the chief faults; and it is hoped the old members and friends of the Society will assist in these corrections, in order that, in a subsequent edition, more completeness may be attained.
